SUNSHINE COOKERS

Model: GSC-F

The FAMILY has been devised to meet up to 70% of the needs of a family of 6 to 8 people in a developing country, entirely with the power of the sun. Even though it is called an oven, food can be boiled, steamed, roasted or baked at cooking temperatures of 360° F / 182° C, making it ideal for cooking the majority of foods in the developing world. This ruggedly built solar appliance weighs only 21 pounds / 9.5 kg folds up like a suitcase, and is equipped with a handle for easy transport.

Model Shown: GSC-F

FAMILY SUNSHINE OVEN will last more than 20 years. A thick batt of non-toxic insulation retains heat. Food cooked in the sun and left in the oven will remain hot for hours. Cold air is held out allowing the FAMILY SUNSHINE OVEN to be used on sunny days year around regardless of the ambient temperature.

Model: GSC-C

The COMMUNITY SUNSHINE COOKER is designed for large-scale feeding situations that require cooking great volumes of food quickly. Even though it is called an oven, enormous quantities of food can be boiled, steamed or baked at cooking temperatures of 500° F / 260° C with no fuel costs.

The world has entered an era of increasingly higher energy costs. These costs are often viewed from an economic perspective, but the toll they take in human and environmental terms, while difficult to measure and often overlooked, are even more devastating. Feeding programs are forced to choose between buying food or the fuel to cook it. SUNSHINE COOKER was developed to help feed large groups of people without destabilizing the environment or contributing to deforestation.

Model Shown: GSC-C

Over 2 billion people cook with wood, charcoal or dung as their primary cooking fuel and the social, economic and environmental impacts are significant.

The COMMUNITY SUNSHINE COOKER has many other benefits as well including sterilizing medical instruments.
